If you were not among the estimated 325 persons who packed the Father Jan Auditorium for the "Search For Centennial Stars" Talent Show, then you missed out on an evening of outstanding entertainment. Much of the success of the evening was due to the efforts of Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Roy Gilley. Mr. Gilley kept the show moving at a brisk pace and contributed 2 vocal selections, sung with much feeling in a rich tenor voice. The judges for the evening were Miss Barbara Hays, well known Edmonton dancing teacher. Mrs. June Shepherd, St. Albert plano teacher and singer and Dr. Norman Dolman. Candidates Comments

Human resources deserve priority

by Keith Everitt, Social Credit Candidate Alberta is still a young province. Great progress has been made but the challenge of the future is even more important than the accomplishments of the past.

The time has come to give the highest priority to human resources development to ensure that each citizen will have an opportunity to develop his or her skill, and talents to the maximum extent possible. For the years ahead we, as a Government, are committed to the provision of facilities and services which will foster the maximum development of the potential of each individual. Special projects as outlined in the Governments White Paper

(1) Establishment of the Alberta Human Resources Research Council and increased research in all fields.

(2) Expansion of existing universities and the establishment of a fourth university in the Edmonton area.

(3) Manpower training and retraining programs.

(4) Expansion of technical schools, vocational schools, junior colleges, and agricultural colleges.

(5) Community development and ARDA Programs to integrate and co-ordinate development of human and physical resources in underdeveloped

(6) Development of new medical science centres to

Historic

give leadership in medical training and research. (7) Preventative Welfare

Services. (8) Appointment of an Ombudsman to safeguard individual rights.

(9) Rebate of the Provincial share of the Federal Estate Tax.

10) Establishment of the Alberta Service Corps by the Department of Youth.

The Minister of Education outlined very capably this year the definition of human resources. Quote: "To many it means the development of adequate supplies of skilled manpower to operate our increasingly complex technological machine. It includes this, of course, but it means much more than that which is encompassed by the term manpower. It means the development of people who are productive in the field of the arts. It means a population capable of making adequate use of leisure time. It means a society that is aware of the finest in its traditions with the capacity to bring these to bear on current social ills."

"I would be remiss in my duty as Minister of Education if I did not emphasize that in the development of Human Resources the school system commencing with Grade 1 and extending into the highest of post-secondary institutions holds a central position, Accordingly, the work of the

on the University by Robert Russell Liberal Candidate

We're already three years late in starting construction on a second university for the Edmonton area and a further delay cannot be justified. Alberta has fewer high school students going on to university than any other province in Canada and the shortage of university space certainly has an effect on enrollment. Universities must be located so that they serve the people that pay the shot and St. Albert has a logical location. The location would be a tremendous boost to our town but it would also serve Jasper Place and north Edmonton much more conveniently than a university located on the south side. Many young people from our sister towns to the north could also commute to university with a great saving to their parents. Not everyone can afford or wants to live in a dormitory, and many young people are needed at home after classes.

Several farmers have suggested to me that if the university is located in this area that it should have a farm services branch and we certainly have

Institute though it will extend beyond the field of education, will be primarily concerned with such issues as these:"

1. The need to evaluate critically and objectively what we are doing now in our schools to discover if we are getting value for our current investments of human and physical resources in public education.

2. The need to plan more effectively future investments in education having regard to the changing nature of our technological society and the changing expectations of parents and students.

3. The need to tackle the problems of adjustment and change in our educational system to meet the demands with which it will be faced within the next two decades. These then, are the key words: To evaluate, to plan, and to improve."

the room to expand into that field. Why not operate a mobile farm service unit to serve the farmers in the district and take the university services to the farmer as is done in California, Such a service would include on the spot diagnosis, seed analysis and soil testing.

I would like to see our next university built where we have some hills, valleys and trees, and where there is room for long range development: where there is room for quiet lanes and sunny hillsides. Young people need a place for meditation and reflection, St. Albert can provide a place with some measure of tranquility and beauty.

THESE TEENS NEED A SPONSOR

OUR READERS

Just recently an incident occurred which greatly involves future recreation in St. Albert. Three teen leaders had been "promised" to be sent to the Recreation Leadership School in Drumheller in the month of July 1967, with the agreement that the Recreation Dept. of St. Albert was to sponsor them, paying a sum of sixty dollars for their training. The deadline for all applications to be in the City of Edmonton was May 1st,

Because they wanted so much to be sent, they put in an enourmous amount of volunteer time on the playtion Dept. of St. Albert turned around and let these teens know that they were not going to send them or pay their sponsorship of sixty dollars. COMMENTS FOR ELECTORATE

Dear Sir,

The advertisement carried on the last page of your April 26th issue cannot be let pass without an attempt to set the record straight. The following comments are directed to the electorate of St. Albert.

1) Mr. Russell was misinformed when he used the phrase "half million dollar deficit was discovered". There was no "deficit" as such, but simply $500,000. worth of work remaining on projects under construction, projects from which the town is benefiting from now, and will continue to benefit from for about two decades.

2) Mr. Russell is wrong when he states Keith Everitt was instrumental in a reversion from "New Town Status"

3) Mr. Russell misleads the public when he says the government failed to acquire land for commercial use. There are about 34 acres of land available for commercial purposes in downtown St. Albert, 30% of which is owned by the town. The scarcity is not land but bonafide devel-

4) If the government faile to consider the safety of our children in planning the highway through town, then would you care to explain the existance of the overpass on highway #2 over Sir Winston Churchill Avenue? This overpass was paid for by the Provincial Government.

5) The government could have located the AGT Centre just about anywhere, however in keeping with government policy of fiscal responsibility, the centre was located in the most practical and economical place. Does he advocate inefficiency ingovernment spending?

6) Mr. Russell is wrong again, the government has always recognized the special requirements of a dormitory town. Solutions are forthcoming, the initial step of which was equalization of assessment. This too is in keeping with the government policy of sound administration with a strong sense of future.

7) Mr. Russell obviously Continued on Page 3

Quality of representation the real question

Since this is the first opportunity I have had to express my views in the political forum provided by this column, I should like to begin by thanking the Gazette for allowing me to do so. At the same time, may I lay to rest some of the doubts which have been created by the other candidates in the forthcoming election?

On the one hand, the incumbent member suggests that projects begun in the name of Social Credit require a continuation of his tenure in order to assure their completion, May I remind him that the proper function of the Legislature is the institution of policy and that its execution is the responsibility of the Civil Service in this case responsible individuals in the various Government Departments. It is impossible to imagine that the hospital scheduled for St. Albert or the highway between Edmonton and Namao could be abandoned because you, as electors, decided to improve upon the present representation.

On the other hand, the Liberal and Socialist candidates have made it abundantly clear that they intend to serve this constituency by collecting scalps in the Legislature by placing unreasonable demands upon it, and by criticizing it for not acceding to those demands. In this way contracts with oil companies would be torn up and unprojected highways would be forced into an already projected building program. Both would be accomplished from the junior benches of the Opposition. I suggest that neither viewpoint is tenable in view of actual circumstance, A change in representation does not result in the stoppage of Government projects in a constituency. Nor does it automatically result in the accomplishment of "airy-fairy" Opposition election promises.

The Conservative Party proposes that the real question facing the electors of the St. Albert Constituency is related to quality of representation-effectiveness of representation on the Government benches in the case of the sitting member, or integrity and intelligence in Opposition in the future. In view of this, the Conservative Party's policy to provide for the integration of Government policy with local need would seem to recommend it far beyond the claims voiced by the present Government member or the would-be Liberal or NDP opposition.

Local election issues

by Norman G. Dolman, New Democratic Party Candidate. St. Albert prov. Con.

In this election, I have been dealing mostly with the broad issues of a PROVINCIAL campaign, but many of these effect the Town of St. Albert and the County of Sturgeon directly, and many people have asked me to make a statement on this.

During the past year, I have taken time out to attend some of the meetings of the St. Albert Council, including the annual meeting. I have attended school board meetings and annual meeting of the Sturgeon District Council, During this time I have followed our local affairs closely.

I believe that the councils of St. Albert and Sturgeon are doing a good job.

Their work is not easy because they have to carry out policies to benefit the majority of the people and yet not ride roughshod over the minority. In this they have succeeded.

With the completion of the Grosvenor Swimming Pool, we now are getting some of the much-needed recreational facilities. St. Albert is quite close to the city and many d the parents feel, as I do, that WEMUST PROVIDE GOOD FACILITIES FOR OUR YOUNG PEOPLE RIGHT HERE IN ST. ALBERT.

When I came to this town over 7 years ago, most of the children were in the early grades at school, but we now have an increasing teen-age population, who, because of the ideals and fervour of youth must be helped to help themselves. The council, service clubs and citizens through their voluntary activities are doing a good job, but there still much to be done.

If I have the good fortun to be elected on May 23rd. they can count on my wholehearted support.

KIDNAPPED BY THE INDIANS.

was repeated to me often by my mother, my grandmother and my greatgrandmother. There still exists in the parish of St. Supice an oft'-repaired old stone house, where the event I am going to relate took place. After reading this narration which I hold to be true, you will better understand my affection for the poor Indians and my natural inclination for the manner of living of the man of the North-West, When the first French settlers and their families were established on the shores of the St. Lawrence River, history tells us of the frequent alerts given by the surprise attacks of the fierce Iroquois. However, the Algonquins, allies of the French, were not without causing them misery and loss by theft. They watched their chance and at times succeeded in carrying off a young white girl whom they would hide in their distant camps, to later make her the wife of some young brave. Now one day when the Duhamel family surnamed Sans Facon, proprietors of this legendary house were in the fields harvesting, a young girl of fifteen or sixteen years was in charge of the younger children, while the parents were at work at a considerable distance from the house. Very tired at the close of day they were startled to see the small children running to meet them as they returned home. These were exhausted with weeping and lamentations for their older sister had disappeared. In as much as they knew it was Indians. . . a large canoe . . . their sister seized and tied, and taken off in the cance . . . It is easier to feel than express the grief of all. The father ran to his neighbors. A search party was organized to search along the river and into the interior ef the country. After several unsuccessful days, discouraged and without hope, all pursuit ceased, looked upon as useless, to abandon themselves to sorrow and regret. Indeed, as they were to learn later, while the parents were in the fields a canoe load of Algonquin Indians came ashore near the house, finding the children alone, seized the young girl and made off with her to their camp, then near Sault Ste. Marie. At that time small trading companies of French Canadian merchants had been formed and at certain times of the year they visited the Indian posts, especially those of the Algonquins, friends of the French, and exchanged their merchandise for the Indians' furs. Among these traders there was a maternal uncle to the stolen girl. About four or five years after the girl's disappearance, they were becoming accustomed to her absence but had not forgotten her. One fine springtime it so happened that a group of these traders set out to trade with the Algonquin Indians of Sault Ste. Marie. In the group was this maternal uncle who served as guide. As usual when they reached the camp they were received cordially, and began trading. During this exchange our man observed the Indian women especially. · He suddenly noticed one and feigning a desire to make a purchase he approached her. She recognized her uncle and he his niece, but prudence was a must. The captive had two small sons. Plans were made for a night escape. At the word and time given, under cover of night she and her children crouched down in the bottom of the canoe. In a few days she was received into the open arms of her family whose joy was as great as their sorrow had been deep when she had been taken from them. The boys were baptized under the family name of Duhamel and were my mother's ancestors. Needless to say the captive had learned the Algonquin language. After her return home she had often to speak this tongue to her children, especially at the beginning. The other members of the family retained many words and expressions. I still recall when my grandmother wanted us to keep silence she would stop us with these Indian words: Kawin onisisin anisinabe--keko! Keko!

The delay in the start of the construction of the hospital is not due to the Provincial Government, On the contrary the delay was due to the fact that the Sturgeon General Hospital Board sought a facility of 100 beds rather than the inadequate original 50 bed structure. Keith Everitt played a large part in convincing the Department of Health a 100 bed facility was required.

Several ladies attended a close retreat at the Star of the North last week, Mrs. Sam Beland was the Captain from Morinville and those attending included Mrs. Hector Ricard, Mrs. Wilfrid Beaupre, Mrs. Paul Hogue, Mrs. Antonio Brisson, Mrs. Fred Cote, Mrs Lorette Craig, and Miss Angeline Leduc.

On Friday April 28th, a well known land mark, located a short distance from town burned down. It was the Big Red Barn on Jean Louis Champagne Farm, The cause of the fire is unknown. Luckily Mr. Champagne was at the farm bagging Alfalfa with the hired man at the time when the fire was discovered in the roof of the barn. The big barn had been all divided and equipped as a farrowing barn for sows. Fortunately, only a few three month old pigs perished in the fire. All the sows were saved. Straw was stored in the top storey. The building is reported to have been insured.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Champagne are grateful for the prompt response of the Morville Fire brigade. Also for all the help received from the neighbours and friends over the weekend helping them to find shelter and supplying straw etc. for the small pigs and all the sows left outside.

The Morinville Curling Association held their annual meeting last Sunday evening at the Curling Rink with some 30 supporters present. that the Social Credit Government spent 100 millions in welfare? asked Dr. Dolman. The New Democratic Party proposes to develop natural resources through a crown corporation if elected, stated Dr. Dolman, He illustrated this point by saying that if Social Credit made 33 millions on liquor sales alone in the past year, why not make more millions in oil and other natural resources now being managed by foreign interests from outside Alberta.

Dr. Dolman announced that Laurier Lapierre, N.D.P. candidate from Eastern Canada, would come to Morinville and hold a meeting before May

Dr. Hugh Horner, P.C.M.P. for the past eight years representing this area in Ottawa, stated that the progressive Conservative candidate for St. Albert constituency, Mr. Stanley Walker's nomination meeting was slated for the next evening, and that he himself would be the candidate in Alberta, in Lac St Anne just West of this constituency. Dr. Horner emphasized that the P.C. party believed in free enterprise. He was forceful in pointing out that all the natural resources of this province should be developed by the citizens of Alberta, he also stated that agriculture had been let down in

The P.C. stated that farm credit should be made available in Alberta, He stressed the pressing need for new market research, and an immediate investigation into the possibility of new grain storage at the Western Ports, such as Prince Rupert and at the West Coast near Vancouver. A real, investment in the youth of Alberta, should be made by supporting young farmers on the land, Under the Social Credit Government, agricultural research and farm development have fallen far behind, said Dr. Horner. Research in new grains and forage crops would be of great help but the present administration has neglected this vital point to date. In closing Dr. Horner stated that the P.C. Platform support the guaranteed price on farm machinery, through licenced distribution that would insure proper working of all new machinery purchased by farmers. Secondary industries would also be given support for immediate development to bring new jobs and prosperity to many towns in

Mr. Russell went on to explain, that in his view, politics is a profession and that all politicians should have a real feeling for people. He stated that the present laws in Alberta are not to serve the people, but to serve the politicians and members of Boards in Alberta, He invited all present to join the Liberals who are the doers in Alberta, He stated that the Empire of Oil and Gas in Alberta could provide free education and doctor's care for all the citizens of this province. raffled in May. Miss Kirby spoke on the aims of the C.W.L. which are changing to keep pace with a changing world. She explained that when the C.W.L. was first formed in Alberta the main aim was to help establish the Parish Church which was poor and always in need of financial assistance. Today the need for financial help is not so evident and although money making projects are still an important part of the C.W.L. workthere is also a need today to study and better our understanding of the roll of the Christian family in the community and in Canada. She stressed that each C.W.L. member must take an active part in this important work.

Mrs. Feehan spoke on "Women in the Home and Community Life." She described how the roll of women has changed radically in the last thirty years. No longer can we hide behind the comfortable old ways. "The women of today feels that her husband and family are of primary importance in her life but there is also time to think of others. We must not forget that today our children are influenced not only by the home and school but also by the community we live in. We must express our view -- the Christian view." She feels that the woman of today needs courage more than anything else. Courage to go forward with true Christian spirit into all fields of endeavour.

Katimavik is the name of the Canadian pavilion at Expo. This Eskimo word meaning, "meeting place", symbolizes the main reason for the fair. Men of the world are to meet and try to understand each other a little better. Now that Expo is open we will be hearing about the many wonders of each country participating. But if you are not a cultural buff there are still many attractions for you at Expo. For example, you can eat your way around the world. Start with Russian caviar and Polynesian tidbits; work your way around Swiss fondue, American hamburger, Maritime lobster, Japanese sukiyaki, Indian curry, and Mexican chili; then dive into Austrian torte, French pastry, and wash it all down with Brazilian coffee, Dutch chocolate, Italian expresso and German beer. The antidote is several days of clear, Canadian water.

An interesting and littleknown sidelight in Canadian history is the story of the young Eskimo mother and her child who were kidnapped by a party of raiders and taken to England in 1768. Mikak, the Eskimo, was at once accep-
